Nurse Practitioner
Instructional Track Faculty Positions

The University of Iowa (UI) College of Nursing seeks applicants with a strong foundation of teaching in an undergraduate pre-licensure and/or graduate program and incorporates active learning strategies. Instructional track faculty provide intensive teaching in classes and clinical practicums. The faculty positions in the undergraduate and graduate programs are nine-month appointments in non-tenure instructional ranks of Lecturer and/or Associate Professor of Instruction. Part time positions are 50% effort or greater.

Faculty positions for the undergraduate and/or graduate programs are available in the following areas: Adult/Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner (AG-ACNP) – part-time position; Family Nurse Practitioner (FNP) – part-time position; Pediatric Nurse Practitioner—Acute Care (PNP-AC) – part-time position

Teaching responsibilities may consist of teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses, supervising students or other course related activities during the academic year (fall and spring semesters). Teaching assignments are made by the Assistant Dean for Graduate Practice Programs in collaboration with the Executive Associate Dean for Academic Affairs.

The college has a long-standing tradition of producing nursing leaders for practice, education and research. As a leader in nursing education, research and practice innovations, the UI College of Nursing has received national recognition by U.S. News & World Report, ranking seven of its graduate programs among the best in the nation (in comparison to all public and private schools).

As a community of nurse scholars, we believe that an expert faculty with varied areas of expertise is required to carry out the educational mission of the College. Faculty are committed to designing and implementing curricula in which students develop critical thinking, decision-making skills, clinical judgment, cultural sensitivity, and professional nursing values in an increasingly complex health care system. The college is committed to promoting diversity and inclusion in achieving our education, research, service, and practice missions, as demonstrated through our Pillars of Diversity.
